

The Open Sea

With the ship, we are going down
Searching for, some higher ground
Who'd have thought, that his day would come
We've been riding, into the storm

Every time we were going under Hiding from the waves
And the rolling thunder
Better jump off now

And just save yourself dear Coz it's obvious that
We are done here

As we sail closer to the rocks
It's hard to tell yeah
Where we are going
It's too late there's no getting off
The rain is falling, the wind is blowing

Into, the open sea
She sails, away from me We know, we're in too deep Lost in, the ocean breeze

If you slipped, I'd still hold your hand
Dive right in and, swim you to the sand now
We're not perfect, just like you say
But I'd never want, you to change

Every time we were going under Hiding from the
waves
And the rolling thunder
Better jump off now

And just save yourself dear Coz it's obvious
We are done here

Every time we were going under Hiding from the
waves
And the rolling thunder
You better jump off now

And save yourself dear Coz it's obvious
We are done here

Into, the open sea
She sails, away from me We know, we're in too
deep Lost in, the ocean breeze

Into, the open sea
She sails, away from me We know, we're in too
deep Lost in, the ocean breeze

With the ship, we are going down
Searching for, some higher ground
Who'd have thought, that his day would come
We've been riding faster into the storm
